We aim to give visibility and representation to all our readers by featuring a range of different lived experiences. Discover characters in non-traditional family structures and from a range of ethnic and social backgrounds, books that are physically inclusive and feature under-represented areas such as neurodiversity and positive female role models, as well as fiction and non-fiction depicting a wide variety of cultures and experiences from around the world. We work with a diverse range of authors, illustrators, charity partners and experts to ensure that our stories and illustrations give authentic representations, and our readers feel accepted and can see themselves in our books.

How does Big Cat reflect a diverse readership?

Our creators

Big Cat is proud to work with brilliant authors and illustrators. Authors are thoughtfully paired with illustrators to ensure authentic representation.

“It has been a joy working with [Collins’] amazing team who work so hard to bring such a diverse range of books to entertain and inspire young and curious imaginations. They are determined to create books for ALL children EVERYWHERE.”

CHRIS CALLAGHAN, AUTHOR OF SHINOY AND THE CHAOS CREW

Our partners

Big Cat works with a range of charities and organisations for expert perspectives on a range of themes.

“It’s so lovely for our limb different children to see themselves represented in a book and doing the same things as all the other children there. We work hard to raise awareness of limb difference and we are grateful to Collins for helping us to normalise what it’s like to live with a limb difference.”

Solve a mystery from history with the Time-travelling Trio

for Copper to Diamond bands

Join Aniyah, EJ and Olivia as they step back in time! Implementing each of the friends' unique skills, every story is carefully woven to interlink their present day situation with incredible true stories from Black history.

From saving the trees in Kenya with Professor Wangari Maathai to diving down to the Mary Rose with Jacques Francis, all the Time-travelling Trio need to do is roll the dice on their family Ludi board to be whisked off on a new adventure...

Chapter 4

"Olivia!" Aniyah and EJ mouthed at the same time. The crowd began to cheer. Olivia skated to the edge of the stage and the drumbeat sped up. A puff of smoke filled the stage and a small lady appeared in the centre of the hall. Echoes of "Miss La La" could be heard from the crowd.

26

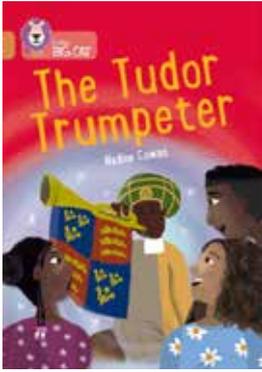

Miss La La grabbed a rope suspended in the middle of the hall. She put the rope between her teeth and held on as she was pulled up above the crowd.

Miss La La began to spin round in a circle, her arms stretched out wide. Round and round she spun, before slowing to a graceful halt. She held the rope with her hands as she was lowered to the ground.

Contemporary fairy tales... with a twist!

for White to Pearl bands

Complement children's exploration of the fairy tale genre with modern twists for children aged 7–11 that deliberately challenge the traditional conventions of gender, ethnicity and agency. These books will help children to challenge embedded and outdated world views, and support their increasing development as sophisticated readers.

1 New job

Adam was proud and excited. It was his first day at his new summer job. He'd been told to chop down trees for firewood, on the far side of the forest by the loch.

As he walked up the path towards the tree line, he made sure that his axe was securely strapped to his back, his mobile phone was tucked in his pocket and that he had the lunchbox his dad had packed for him.

The forest was dark, oddly cold and silent. It felt different from previous visits when it had been full of sunshine and birdsong.

Adam had grown up hearing fairy tales about the odd things that happened in magical forests. He shivered.

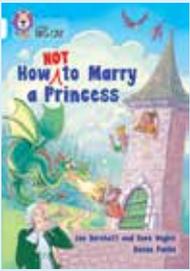

Of course, he knew that fairy tales weren't real, but he was worried about encountering a creature the stories often featured – a hungry wolf.

Leading children's authors have provided their own twists on familiar fairy tales to bring them up to date, reimagining characters, plot lines and settings so that girls rescue themselves, stepmothers aren't always evil and sometimes being the handsome prince isn't all it seems.

Still, when I pick up my finished aeroplane, I can't help writing a note in it. A letter to the universe. I fold the aeroplane back up and carry it to the balcony.

I pull open the door, squirt at the light outside, and stick out a finger to test the air. Then I pull back my arm and throw the aeroplane with all my might.

It soars!
It flaps!
It glides!

Then it CRASHES into the building across the road, crumpling into a paper mess. Just like all my attempts at making friends.

"It's fine," I mutter, turning away. My eyes burn, but I won't cry. "I don't need friends."

Hello! To anyone who reads this: Want to be friends?

1 We don't know ... how many planets there are!

Earth is a planet. Planets are huge. You might think they would be easy to count.

But over the last 250 years, the number has changed many times. Today, we count eight planets.

Year	Discovery	Number of known planets
Before 1781	Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn	6
1781	discovery of Uranus, the 7th planet	7
1846	discovery of Neptune, the 8th planet	8
1930	discovery of Pluto, the 9th planet	9
2006	Pluto is changed to a dwarf planet	8

Features of a planet

- ✓ Spherical (ball-shaped)
- ✓ Orbits the Sun and nothing else
- ✓ Doesn't share its orbit

Is Pluto a planet?

For a long time, people called Pluto the ninth planet. It is spherical and it orbits the Sun. However, Pluto shares its orbit with Charon, a moon almost half its size! So Pluto has been renamed a dwarf planet.

What are secret codes?

People have been writing secret messages for thousands of years. These messages were hidden, using ways of writing called codes. A code is like a puzzle where letters of the alphabet are swapped with other letters, numbers or pictures.

VGOk8qPDa"1BM(xwY 34Vh=
vZfpI=fly8dv is3KflqS2j
kB8k"NLM2dLpekY25s0aPE
DK2 KVHaw2)SECRET' CODI
Fs3spKN2asDd iqkaf21

)46xFh1Wi"j1Ksc9AVH
IKhN3BqQ2"%!hDBshle
xgF2hK%":c=js:dAqk

To understand the message, you need a key that tells you what letters have been swapped and how to put them back in order.

Chapter 2

When Tara opened her eyes, she was in a laboratory surrounded by robots. There were robot hands, robot arms and robot legs.
Oh! A robot on wheels bumped into her legs.
WOW! Tara ducked as a robot with propellers swerved around her head.

"Sorry!" said the boy controlling it. "You appeared right in its flight path!"

A girl scooped up the robot by Tara's feet. "That's Ortez – he's a robotics engineer. He designed all these machines," she explained.

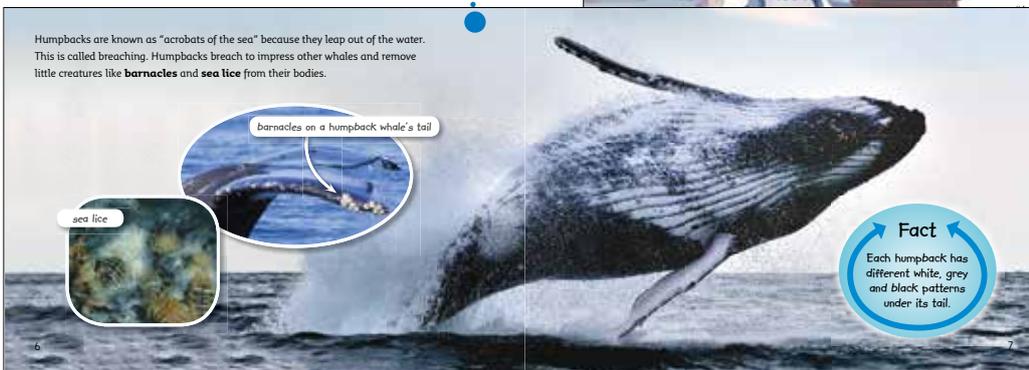

"That's Ayesha," smiled Ortez. "She teaches robots how to learn from their surroundings and from mistakes. It's called artificial intelligence or AI."
Robots are probably cleverer than I am, thought Tara.

Humpbacks are known as "acrobats of the sea" because they leap out of the water. This is called breaching. Humpbacks breach to impress other whales and remove little creatures like barnacles and sea lice from their bodies.

Fact

Each humpback has different white, grey and black patterns under its tail.

Level Chart

Level	Level Description
1	Level 1 books introduce children to the letters of the Arabic alphabet using bright and engaging illustrations.
2	Level 2 books introduce simple words for children to read based on key syllables with long vowels.
3	Level 3 books introduce the concept of the 'story', and include simple phonic sounds and very high-frequency words with simple spellings.
4	Level 4 books are for children who are ready to start to read stories with simple single words or non-verbal sentences with 2 or 3 short words, and with total support through illustrations and extensive use of repetition. Double spacing is used between words to ensure children see where each new word in a sentence begins and ends, with the focus on reading core words.
5	Level 5 books are for children who are ready to read stories with more challenging word patterns or non-verbal sentences with 2 or 3 words, and with total support through illustrations and extensive use of repetition. Double spacing is used between words to ensure children see where each new word in a sentence begins and ends to ensure the focus remains on reading core words.
6	Level 6 books provide an advance on level 5. Sentences are still highly repetitive but slightly longer, with simple story development supported by illustrations. Double spacing is used between words to ensure children see where each new word in a sentence begins and ends. Although the focus at level 6 remains on reading the core words, the concept of reading hamzat al-wasl and sun letters correctly is introduced in non-verbal sentences of up to 4-5 words.
7	Level 7 books include storylines with more episodes in time sequence, and may include imaginary happenings in the context of familiar experiences. There is still repetition but more variation in pattern and more new words are introduced than in lower levels. Non-fiction titles bring in simple non-fiction tools, such as diagrams, labels and captions. Additional vowel marks that encourage the flow of pronunciation are introduced at this level. Verbal sentences of up to 8-10 words with repeating and accessible actions appear at this level. Double spacing is used between words to ensure children see where each new word in a sentence begins and ends.
8	Level 8 books are becoming more complex, although still strongly patterned but to a lesser extent than level 7. Although the focus remains on vowel marking to aid the flow of reading with verbal sentences of up to 8-10 words, level 8 books have more events and episodes, fewer repeated patterns, and more complex vocabulary. Non-fiction titles use non-fiction tools – including signs, labels, captions and diagrams – where necessary. Double spacing is used between words to ensure children see where each new word in a sentence begins and ends.
9	Level 9 books are similar in complexity to level 8, with strong patterns and similar events and episodes. Non-fiction titles use non-fiction tools – including signs, labels, captions and diagrams – where necessary. Single-word spacing is used from level 9 upwards. In addition, very high-frequency words appear consistently without vowel markings. These features will help the students get used to the traditional norms of printed Arabic.
10	Level 10 books include characters that express emotions and stories with more events. Non-fiction titles introduce terms that might be new to many children. Level 10 books continue to use single spacing and more high-frequency words appear without vowel markings to help the students get used to the traditional norms of printed Arabic.
11	Level 11 books provide more literary language, more complex sentence structures and less support from illustrations. Characters are more varied, with action sustained over several pages. Non-fiction titles include glossaries where necessary. Sentences are still short for better understanding. However, grammatical vowel endings are more evident to encourage fluent reading and to provide familiarity with some higher-level features of written Arabic.
12	Level 12 books feature greater use of literary language and more unusual and challenging vocabulary. Play scripts also feature from Level 12. Non-fiction titles contain longer, more formal sentences and a wide range of unfamiliar terms. Sentences become longer with greater use of conjunctions and relative clauses. Grammatical vowel endings are more evident to encourage fluent reading and to provide familiarity with some higher-level features of written Arabic.
13	Level 13 books feature longer and more complex sentence structures. Sentences make use of a wide range of stylistic features which reflect progression in the teaching of Arabic grammar. Stories may also contain more literary, metaphorical language, including similes and other figurative language to help the reader create mental images, plus exaggeration for dramatic or humorous effect. Non-fiction titles contain longer, more formal sentences and a broader range of unfamiliar terms.
14	Level 14 books build on level 13 by offering stories with more complex plots and with a greater number of chapters to encourage the development of reading stamina. Non-fiction texts use complex vocabulary and deal with challenging global themes. The style of language further reflects progression in the teaching of Arabic grammar, while still using largely familiar vocabulary and simplified concepts.
15	Level 15 books provide more complex plots and longer chapters to help develop reading stamina and to help develop sustained engagement with texts. Level 15 books use a wide range of language structures to reflect progression in the teaching of Arabic grammar. Paragraphs and other text devices become more evident in these longer books.
16	Level 16 books offer more complex, underlying themes that give opportunities for children to understand causes and points of view. A wide range of language structures is used to reflect progression in the teaching of Arabic grammar, while still retaining the core aim of encouraging a love of reading through Arabic stories and texts.

Lilac band supports emergent readers through wordless books that tell a story through pictures and are designed to develop understanding about how stories work.

Planning and guidance

On the Little Wandle website you will find lesson plans and resources, plus a range of 'How to' videos modelling the teaching of handwriting – all included as part of your existing subscription.

'Ready to write' checklist: the four Ps

It is important to establish routines for getting ready for handwriting lessons. The routines of warming up fingers, having the correct posture and holding the pencil correctly so that children are ready to write are key. These routines need to be a common policy in the school, and have clear expectations that are established right from the start and reinforced so that they become embedded and automatic.

The Little Wandle 'Ready to write' checklist ensures children are well prepared to start handwriting with confidence and control. The children are taught and reminded of four elements prior to starting their handwriting lesson.

Posture	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
Pencil grip	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
Paper position	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
Pressure	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

Posture

If children have a poor posture when writing, it can result in pain and fatigue, causing poor presentation, handwriting that is difficult to read, slow speed and lack of motivation to write. By modelling, monitoring and reinforcing good posture from the beginning, poor habits can be prevented from developing and children can be supported in building the stamina and speed needed for fluent writing.

- Feet are flat on the floor or supported on a wide, stable raised surface.
- Knees form a 90 degrees angle, with about two fingers' space behind the knees to prevent pressure on the lower thighs.
- Hips are positioned at approximately 90 degrees, with the back fully supported by the chair.
- Seat position with the back against the chair maintaining a small gap (about the width of a fist) between the stomach and the table, so there is sufficient space to breathe comfortably.
- Table and chair height should allow the forearms to rest comfortably on the surface - without leaning forward (too low) or raising the shoulders (too high).
- Work surface must be clean, smooth and clear of clutter to promote proper hand and arm placement and allow arms to move freely to write.

Pencil grip

Children need to learn how to hold their pencil correctly from the outset, as grip affects the flow, speed and overall quality of handwriting. Without a proper grip, children's hands can tire more quickly, their writing can become harder to read and they may struggle to write for extended periods - an essential skill as they progress through school.

Young children need to develop the muscles in their hands to build the strength required for a proper pencil grip. For some, this will take longer and require additional practice. Children initially start to hold the pencil within their fist (age 1-1.5 years), progress to holding the pencil shaft with all their fingers (2-3 years) and then move on to a static, then dynamic tripod grasp. Children typically progress through a series of grasp patterns before developing a tripod grip.

Tripod grip

The tripod grip is typically the easiest for children to learn. It can be modelled by showing how to pinch the pencil between the ball of the thumb and index finger - about a finger's width from the pencil tip - while resting the middle finger underneath for support, and the other fingers tucked into the hand. Using a small sticker to mark the correct grip position can be a helpful visual aid. The ideal location of the fingers is about 3cm from the pencil tip. For children who find pencil grip challenging, timely intervention and additional practice are essential to prevent the development of incorrect habits. See the 'Pencil grip' video on the Little Wandle website.

For children who continue to have difficulty with fine and gross motor skills, adaptive equipment can be used to support their development.

Writing implements and equipment

- Pencils are an ideal tool for introducing letter formation as they provide a smooth glide across the page helping young children develop control during the complex process of learning to write. Some children may benefit from using thicker, triangular pencils to support the development of a tripod grip.
- However, the size of the pencil should be appropriate for the child's hand. While some children may initially find a chunkier pencil easier to grip, as they develop pencil control, it's important to ensure the pencil is not too large, as this can hinder comfort and proper grip development.
- There are pencil grips commercially available that promote a good tripod position. An elastic band placed at the tip of the pencil will prevent the fingers from slipping forwards onto the point.

Measure and record pupil progress in fluency

How does the assessment work?

- A child reads an extract from a levelled text
- The teacher records the number of words read per minute (WPM)
- Errors are recorded and subtracted from the total number of words read to give the words correct per minute (WCPM)
- WCPM are divided by the WPM and multiplied by 100 to give an accuracy percentage

Celebrating Global Narratives

Our stories travel the globe, bringing experiences and voices from every corner of the world directly into the hands of young readers. By partnering with authors and illustrators from an incredible variety of backgrounds and countries, we ensure that every child sees themselves reflected in our books while also discovering new perspectives.

Through their experiences, these authors bring depth to the narratives they create, building an endless world of storytelling, where anyone, anywhere, can immerse themselves in tales that resonate.

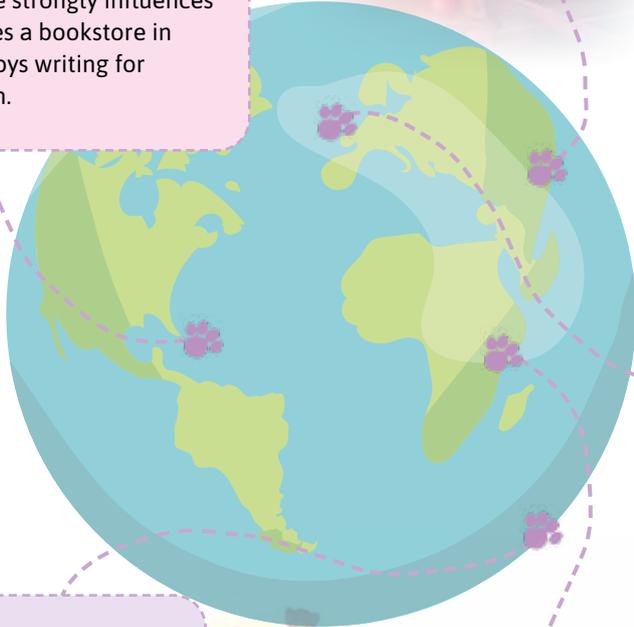

Meet some of our incredible authors and celebrate the voices that make Collins Big Cat a truly international reading programme.

Barbara Arrindell

Antigua and Barbuda

Barbara grew up less than a mile from the beach and her love for swimming and exploring the sea shore strongly influences her books. She manages a bookstore in the Caribbean and enjoys writing for and reading to children.

Mio Debnam

Hong Kong

Mio loves spinning stories that contain slices of her life as a Japanese kid growing up in Hong Kong and sharing strange or fascinating facts with readers of all ages. As a prolific author she is the Regional Advisor of the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators.

Chris Callaghan

England

Chris struggled with reading as a child and decided as an author to support reluctant readers through his gripping graphic-novel series Shinoy and the Chaos Crew. His past as an Environmental Scientist and a Fighter Aircraft Engineer in the Royal Air Force inspires him with lots of crazy stories!

Samantha Montgomerie

New Zealand

Samantha has worked for over 25 years as an English teacher, and loves seeing young people engrossed in great stories. She lives in New Zealand, where she takes inspiration from the salt-laced air to create great plotlines and poetry.

Shiko Nguru
